THE DIPLOMAT

SPECIAL FROM THE MELBOURNE CONVALESCENT HOME: As forecast earlier in AEOLUS #4, your editor did visit and receive punishment at the hands of Ohio's Diplomacy fans this past weekend of 15 June. In brief - Koning-Smythe excelled at Diplomacy, Smythe became a most uncomfortable Blitzkrieg opponent, and the one bright moment occurred when John Koning most graciously conceded to my beginner's luck in Jutland. Actually many of the hours were spent in conversation, not (sadly to say) by the editor as a most evil malady from swampy Georgia (probably assisted by Ohio's steel mills) did silence myself except for an occasional eruption. All in all it was a most pleasant visit with the Wells and Koning's, (cont. on pg.7)

DIPLOMACY GAMES

John McCallum's call for (BROB 82) and Rod Walker's actual compilation of a current rating list (ERE III, #1), spurred action on a planned AEOLUS rating list. But contrary to the wise-old saying, "better late than never," the project has once again been cubby-holed. This time due to the imposing presence of the bug "paperwork". But as a substitute we offer readers a continuation of the games listing published in the last issue; this listing to be updated in subsequent issues. Hopefully this accumulation of data will encourage potential current raters by eliminating some of their research work, as does the roster changes compiled by John Koning in STAB.

As before, only games having reached Fall 1903 will be included. The assumption is made that games not having reached this period do not yet contain worthwhile data (for rating purposes). Again the listing is in two parts and due to the editor's vacation and the subsequent lengthy period between issues, is quite long.

PRESS RELEASES:

HELOLAND: Comrade Doctor Baron Heider, D.L., R.D.E., L.R.N.L., L.A.N., announced today that the Sinister International Conspiracy had claimed its first victim. "Austria-Hungary has gone," he chuckled. "England will soon follow. Eventually the machinations of the Sinister International Conspiracy will overwhelm the entire civilized world - and Elarton, Pennsylvania, too!"

NEWS ITEM: "Sink the Bismarck!" - G.B.

TANGIER: The Sinister International Conspiracy agent Heinrich Megatherum von Strangoulis, alias Genrykh Kuznetsovich Inovihornov, alias Henri Soltau-Halygonis was seen here today in the uniform of a major in the Fourth Burgundian Horse Marine Artillery Corps. Inasmuch as Burgundy has not existed as a nation for 400 years, observers believe that the Conspiracy is plotting some sinister action on the African front.

S.I.C. Hq, LONDON: At a hastily scheduled press briefing in the sub-basement of Buckingham Palace (now retitled Palais de Reinsal), S.I.C.'s Unpublicity Director commented on the world situation with diabolical gleam in her baby blue eyes.

"Man, I'm flipping," said Pygmy. "Our S.I.C. Master Plan is coming in right on cue. Austria's gone and England's going. Russia and Turkey are tied up and so are Germany and France. And who's gonna make it to the top? Italy, man. Oh, I've got a Leitch for Italy."

She went on to analyze SIC's activities. "This is strictly confidential," she said. "Not one word must get out, but we did it all ourselves. We knew that le Grand Charles de Belmont wanted to be a second Charlemagne, so we persuaded him to go after Germany and England at the same time. Our men in Berlin stirred up a Haxenleiche. In Turkey we had the Sultan's harem flee to Russia and take political asylum. And Italy? Oh, it'll make it up there, and then -- poof! And we'll take over."

GENEVA: Tigran Vulgarian of the Sinister International Conspiracy today held a press conference in the cellar of an estaminet. A partial transcript of the conference follows:

Q. What sinister action is the Conspiracy plotting on the African front?

A. Preposterous! There isn't an African front!

Q. Miss Twigg is the Conspiracy's Unpublicity Director, Miss Pussy Katz?

A. That's for me to know and you to find out.

Q. Is it true that Miss Twigg is now the Conspiracy's Unpublicity Director?

A. Well, she was until last Saturday night. Miss Twigg rather incautiously removed the plug from her bathtub before stepping out of it. But we have several dozen agents searching the sewers of London, and we expect that she will be found any day now.

Q. Are you sure there isn't an African front?

A. Quite sure.

Q. Why do you hold your press conferences in this cellar?

A. This cellar is a hallowed place in the annals of the SIC. It was on this spot that we negotiated the betrayal of the Gallic chieftain Dircetrix to the Roman general Sextus Licentius Disgabius. It was here that we recruited the Swiss guards who admitted the Germans to Rome in 1527. And it was here that John Calvin was secretly married to Theodore Beza according to the rites of the Really Old Catholic Church, a Conspiracy front.

Q. Does the Conspiracy intend to back the Turkish League for Free Finns?

A. Yes, unless it actually comes close to achieving its aims.

Q. Are you quite sure there isn't an African front?

A. One more stupid question and I'll kick your European rear.

Thank you, Mr. Vulgarian.

S.I.C. Hq, PARIS: Petite, curvaceous Jeanne ValJeanne, chief SIC agent in France, held a secret briefing atop the Eiffel Tower with an intrepid representative of the Alpine Journal. "Mais oui," she said, "but yes, Seek is responsible for the student riots and general strike in France. Naturellement, the recent French defeats have helped. Ma foi, but it brings back old times to see French forces retreating, nest-ce pas? Confidentially, I can tell you that General de Reinseel has fled from Paris. He has retreated to his hometown, Claron-les-deux-Bordellos."

NEWS ITEM: "Now sink that stupid Russian 'fishing fleet' that is lost in the North Sea!" - B.B.

SIC Hq, ORLEANS: Another in the bevy of gorgeous SIC girls was introduced to the press in the person of Flatte LaFitte, statuesque blonde and agente extraordinaire. Mademoiselle LaFitte first demonstrated her professional metier, which consists of declaiming from Racine's Athalie whilst swimming nude with a dolphin (said dolphin also being nude). As an encore, LaFitte subjected reporters (said reporters also being nude) to a five-hour briefing on SIC's plans for France. In conclusion, the curvaceous Flatte said, "In conclusion, SIC has no plans for France. Frankreich ist Kaputt, as my lovely colleague Margrette von Hoellenmuth would say."

SIC Hq, BERLIN: "Frankreich ist Kaputt", said lovely SIC agent Margrette von Hoellenmuth.

SIC Hq, THE VATICAN: The SIC agent to the Holy See, the veiled priest Fr. Deodamnatus (an obvious pseudonym), commented to a group of newsmen concerning the Pope's recent condemnation of SIC. "Naturally SIC is enraged by the Holy Father's Intemperate attack," he said. "You will notice that we have fomented peace between Turkey and Russia to clear the way for an attack on Italy. Obviously our real target is the Vatican. Once we toss this Pope out, we can control the next election through our sources close to the College of Cardinals. I won't go so far as to say that the Sacred College speaks unanimously for us, but I won't deny it either."

A reporter from British Scandanavia asked if the purpose of the maneuver was not merely to allow Turkey to catch Russia off guard. "Aren't you being disingenuous in your statements he asked, "and isn't Russia still Turkey's prime objective?"

"Ahahaha", Deodamnatus laughed evilly. "Gentlemen, you may trust my word as you would trust your own."

STRATEGY AND TACTICS WHEN PLAYING ITALY
 by Eugene Prosnitz

Other commentators, including some recent contributors to AEOLUS, have stated both that Italy is one of the weakest countries, and also that when playing

Italy, there's little scope for negotiations. I disagree on both counts.

Italy is probably the most centrally located country on the board. It is close enough to both the eastern and western fronts to be vitally concerned with the outcome of the war on all fronts, probably more directly concerned than any other power, with the possible exception of Russia.

In a current game in which I'm playing Italy, I wrote ten letters, and received seven, before the Spring 1901 moves were even published! (And believe it or not, I was being 90% honest). These letters included a turn down of a French request for a non-aggression pact.

Italy has the good fortune to be the only country on the board which is rarely, if ever, in danger of being ganged up on by two or more countries at the beginning of the game. Usually, no one wants to fight Italy at that stage. Therefore, the Italian player often has the luxury of being noncommittal at the outset, and waiting for a favorable opening.

At the same time, Italy should definitely involve itself in the forming of alliances by the other powers. Consider the three western powers. The worst thing for Italy is a French-German alliance, as France builds fleets to conquer England, and often later sends the fleets against Italy. An Anglo-French alliance is better, since then France builds mostly armies. Best of all is a Anglo-German alliance, removing the threat on Italy's western frontier.

Similarly, in the East: An Austro-Turkish alliance creates the grave danger that after they conquer Russia, they'll turn on Italy. A Russo-Turkish alliance is an improvement, since Russia primarily becomes a land power and can not easily invade Italy proper, and may well side with Italy after the fall of Austria. A Russo-Austrian alliance is best of all (unless Italy wants to conquer Austria) for then Italy's main danger, Turkey, is eliminated, and Italy and Russia now have Austria in between them.

The above paragraphs are relevant strategy for an Italian player who plans to go in the opposite direction. For example, if Italy wants to attack France, the Italian player should also try to negotiate a favorable situation on the eastern front, and vice versa.

Italy almost always survives the opening; the problems start in the mid-game. Italy often crushes Austria, with help from Russia and Turkey, only to find itself the next victim of a joint Russo-Turkish effort. Or, even worse, Italy may get caught in the scissors between the navies of France and Turkey. The Italians are in the dilemma of needing armies to conquer Austria, and desperately needing fleets for later defense.

An Italian attack on France, although less immediately lucrative, has definite possibilities, i.e. the acquisition of Spain, Portugal, and Marseilles. Also an Italian-Austrian non-aggression pact has the advantage that since Italy is primarily a sea power and Austria is primarily a land power, that they can stay out of each other's hair.

However, in order to attack France, Italian forces have to be sent far from home. Since Austria is so close to the Italian homeland (not to mention the danger of a Turkish fleet sailing into the Ionian), Italy risks leaving its homeland in jeopardy.

By contrast, the Italo-French non-aggression pact is probably the most stable on the board, because of the wide gulf which can be left vacant between the two.

Suppose Italy conquers southern France? What next? The next Italian move will leave Italy very spread out, every potential victim presents serious problems. In this respect, Italy differs with the other central powers, Austria and Germany, which usually have a fairly compact position to operate from. End

This is the first in a series of articles on each country by various authors.

PRESS RELEASES:

BERLIN: Long lines were forming, both here and in the neighboring city of Munich, for the revival of the hit Alan Arkin movie of a year ago.

ISTANBUL, 111-6-1323: President Osman Hlemcelet of the Turkish Republic declared today that the Turkish nation must again consider itself at war with Russia.

MOSCOW: Count Peranovich, the Tsar's chief spokesman, addressed the Duma today. He stated: The Germans are rearming in the Rhineland, in Alsace Lorraine, and even reported to be testing weapons in the foothills of the Pyrenees. The Hun is obviously a vile aggressor. Therefore, we must take steps to protect Mother Russia, and our Slavic neighbors in Bohemia and Silesia (Silesia, of course, is part of Poland). We must move now, next year the Hun may be too strong.

BERLIN (DWE): Do not worry about our Baltic cruise, anyone... it is merely a feint before our massive attack on... would you believe Austria?

LETTER (via carrier pigeon) TO PRESIDENT OSMAN, 1V-4-1323: "Cousin Osman; Don't you wish you were here?" - Sidi Kokran, Sultan.
